DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is in response to the RCE filed 10/26/05.
2. Claims 1, 2, 4-7, 9, 10-12, 14-30 are pending in the application. Claims 1, 6, and 11, are independent claims.
3. The rejection of claims 1, 6, and 11, under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter has been withdrawn as necessitated by the amendment. Furthermore, the rejection of claims 1, 2, 4-7, 9-12, and 14-30, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dabney in view of Mason has been withdrawn pursuant to applicant's arguments.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1, 2, 4-7, 9-12, 14-18, 21-23, and 26-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kuppusamy et al., USPN 6,769,096 filed 6/24/1998.

In reference to independent claim 1, Kuppusamy teaches:

Once the frameset is created, the contents (quarterly report) of both documents can be saved as HTML documents in an Internet browser-readable format (compare to "storing a version of a paper, the version being displayable on a display device as a likeness of the paper"). See column 10, lines 8-16.

Art Unit: 2178

A heading is detected within the first location of the quarterly report, which provides a reference to a second location within the quarterly report (compare to “detecting a reference to a second location, wherein the detected reference is a phrase”). See column 7, lines 45-67.

The creation of the entries in the TOC document occurs once the selected headings are identified. A hyperlink entry is created in the TOC document for each selected heading (compare to “in response to the detected reference, embedding a hyperlink within the first location”). See column 8, lines 25-38.

The text of the entry into the TOC document may be displayed in a different color than ordinary text, or the text of the entry may be underlined to identify its linking function. In the screen display, the links are displayed as underlined text (compare to “when the first location is displayed on the display device, highlighting the first location to indicate the hyperlink as being selectable by a user to cause an operation associated with the second location”). See column 8, lines 48-60.

The examiner believes the first location is taught by quarterly report and the TOC document. The reference provides the two separate pieces of information related to each other in one display. Highlighting the first reference would equate to underlining/changing the color of the section name found within the quarterly report. The creation of the entries in the TOC document occurs once the selected headings are identified. The reference fails to explicitly state highlighting the first display; however, the known technique of underling/changing the color of hyperlinked text was well known by one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made and provides a similar method of highlighting which in turn would give the user an improved way to identify a linking function.

In reference to dependent claim 2, Kuppusamy teaches:

A hyperlink entry is created in the TOC document for each selected heading. A hyperlink has two components: a link and an anchor. The link is a specially activated word, phrase or image in the TOC document that, when triggered, transfers the focus to the anchor in the target document. See column 8, lines 25-47.

In reference to dependent claim 4, Kuppusamy teaches:

The reference provides a hyperlink entry created in the TOC document for each selected heading. A hyperlink has two components: a link and an anchor. The link is a specially activated word, phrase, or image in the TOC document that, when triggered, transfers the focus to the anchor in the target document. See column 8, lines 25-47. The reference fails to explicitly disclose the second location external to the paper; however, the two separate documents (the TOC and the target document) could be considered as providing a link to a document external to the target document.

In reference to dependent claim 5, Kuppusamy teaches:

The reference provides a hyperlink entry created in the TOC document for each selected heading. A hyperlink has two components: a link and an anchor. The link is a specially activated word, phrase, or image in the TOC document that, when triggered, transfers the focus to the anchor in the target document. See column 8, lines 25-47. The reference fails to explicitly disclose the second location external to the paper; however, the two separate documents (the TOC and the target document) could be considered as providing a link to a document external to the target document.

In reference to claims 6, 7, 9, and 10, the claims reflect the system comprising computer readable instructions used for performing the methods as claimed in 1, 2, 4, and 5, respectively.

Therefore, the claims are rejected under similar rationale.

In reference to claims 11, 12, 14, and 15, the claims reflect the computer program product comprising computer readable instructions used for performing the methods as claimed in 1, 2, 4, and 5, respectively. Therefore, the claims are rejected under similar rationale.

In reference to dependent claim 16, Kuppusamy teaches:

The text of the entry may be displayed in a different color than ordinary text, or the text of the entry may be underlined to identify its linking function. In the screen display the links are displayed as underlined text. Alternatively, the link may be a graphical image rather than text.

See column 8, lines 50-59.

In reference to dependent claim 17, Kuppusamy teaches:

When the link at Entry is triggered, the focus of the target document will shift to an anchor located at “quarterly report.html#Executive Summary”. See column 8, lines 55-67.

In reference to dependent claim 18, Kuppusamy teaches:

In the screen display, the links are displayed as underlined text. Alternatively, the link may be a graphical image rather than text. See column 8, lines 48-58. The two separate files are the TOC document and the target document. See column 7, lines 15-34.

In reference to claims 21, 22, and 23, the claims reflect the system comprising computer readable instructions used for performing the methods as claimed in 16, 17, and 18, respectively. Therefore, the claims are rejected under similar rationale.

Art Unit: 2178

In reference to claims 26, 27, and 28, the claims reflect the computer program product comprising computer readable instructions used for performing the methods as claimed in 16, 17, and 18, respectively. Therefore, the claims are rejected under similar rationale.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 19, 20, 24, 25, 29, and 30 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 2, 4-7, 9-12, and 14-30 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
